

Statement made by Nozipho Wright – WMG

25 March 2015

My name is Nozipho Wright from Botswana, speaking on behalf of the Women's Major Group.

We believe that developing indicators must be inclusive, open, transparent and strengthened over time. Major Groups must continue to be engaged in a formal and institutionalized manner in the development of the indicators. We believe that in order for the goals and the targets to be achieved, the indicators must be agreed by technical experts, with input from diverse groups of civil society.

Research and development of the indicator framework should remain open after the 47th Session of the SC. If we want to implement an ambitious agenda, the devising of indicators must not be rushed, to allow for input from all concerned parties, including at the national and regional level. This session should draft the main principles and criteria for the next stage to develop indicators. The WMG has a set of proposals in that regard:

1. Data should be disaggregated on the basis of age, sex, gender, geography, income, disability, race and ethnicity and other factors as relevant to monitor inequalities. For example with Goal 7, the population with access to electricity, will show which groups will require additional support.
2. Develop indicators that contribute to multiple targets and measure the impact of multiple inputs.
3. Make room for the development of new indicators to better capture information on areas where data is already being collected.
4. Develop indicators to address all SDGs and targets.
5. Indicators must address the output and input; and process indicators should be included to reflect where financing should be directed. There is a need to prioritize missing data and filling data gaps.
6. The IAEG on SDGs must have balanced regional representation, with funding available for Global South representation.
7. Civil society (particularly funding for adequate Global South representation) should be included in the Global Monitoring Groups.

Thank You
